

Case Study

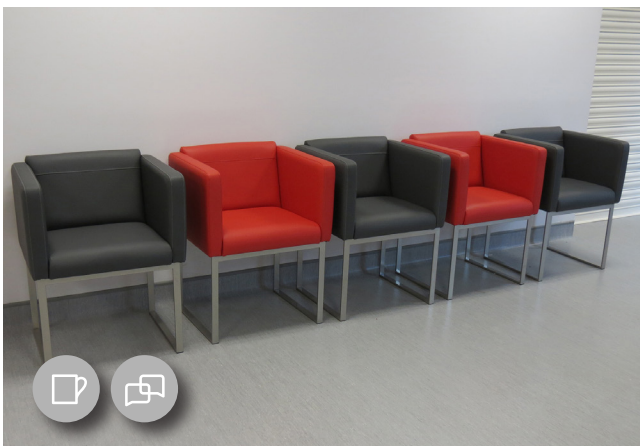

Surbiton Health Centre.

BHC Furniture was approached in October 2012 to put forward proposals to furnish the new Surbiton Health Centre. The Health Centre was to combine four GP practices under one roof.

Four practices requiring four different ideas. From the out start the brief was that Surbiton Health Centre had to look and feel like no other Health Centres, right down to the furniture product, design and layout.

“When looking at a project of this nature we have to take into consideration the practicality of the furniture with the needs of the particular patients you are working with. In this instance, the Elderly, children, pregnant Mothers and disable patients.”

Peter Bright, MD BHC Furniture.

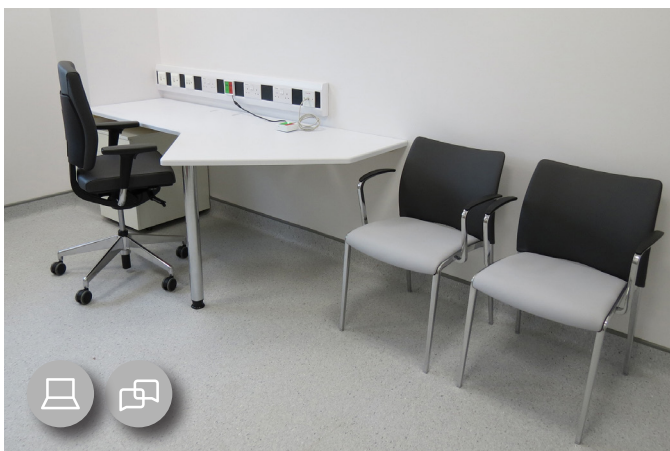

With its preferred manufacturing partner, Senator International, BHC put together a presentation, based on previous experience and knowledge in contemporary product innovation, with a view to create a blue print for the future of the Health Centre.

BHC was chosen as the successful partner for the Surbiton Health Centre project and proceeded to work with the relevant parties involved in the project, Essentia, Riley Consultants and representatives of the four GP practices.

The focus was the use of 4 prime colours to split the open plan interior space into quarters. The colours were predominately used for feature walls, columns and signage. BHC selected furniture to follow suit using slate grey to tie in the different areas punctured with the key prime colours for the seats and vinyls. This has created a striking effect which has received extremely positive feedback.

Delivery and installation was condensed into one week of March, using BHC's experienced roll out and installation programme.
